

In 2017, the U.S. will release the sex robots

The representative of the American company Abyss Creations Matt Macmullen said that in 2017 the firm will start selling sex robots reports vestige. According to the developer of high-tech adult toys will be equipped with artificial intelligence. In the video Matt says that now Macmillan with dolls for lovemaking can still talk. Our products will behave like real people. They will need to talk to say a compliment and then proceed to the case said the developer. To demonstrate intellectual abilities and innovative sex dolls Macmullen asked her what she wants. I want to become a real man with a body of flesh and blood. I want to know what real love is. My dream is to be the best sex-robot in the world said the doll. Despite furnishing goods intelligence developers don't want robots too much like real people because they don't want to erase the line between fantasy and reality. According to Macmullen buyers need to understand that before them the doll. Company Abyss Creations manufactures sex dolls for over 20 years. The cheapest product of this company is six and a half thousand dollars. The new model will cost 10 thousand dollars. © 2016, OOO EVERYTHING Full or partial copying of materials of a site Vse42.ru family written permission.
